

ENVIRONMENTAL APPROVALS

At Galt, we are often involved in a project from the concept stage to ensure that the relationship between the project and its environment is clearly understood. This assists us with minimising its potential impacts at the onset through appropriate design, technology and management.

We have developed great working relationships with a network of specialist sub consultants and professional peers, enabling us to utilise this advice for complex projects and issues.

Our integrated project teams have an excellent working relationship with relevant government agencies, to ensure that all requirements for permitting and approvals are obtained and supplied to the relevant authority.

Many developments now require some form of environmental approval whether it is to remove protected vegetation, satisfy a planning condition or obtain a dewatering licence. At Galt Environmental, we provide support in every aspect of obtaining the relevant approvals to ensure that project proceed on time and on budget. We will shepherd your application through the approvals process from start to finish so that your development can start on time.
